O far away o'er the salt sea foam
Land of the west is my own loved home Ive sailed far from that charmed spot
The home of my loved one it not forgot There ent with love ive walking hours
When walking the decks thy form i see In midnight sleep then thou is ours
Then dearest i dream of thee When awakened by the bells on the sea dolte over tis then i regret that my dream is over

Spirit beloved i will not mourn
For the change of earth for heaven
But only shed o'er thoughts which burn Refulgent in affections urn those sacred (tears) which fall forgiven Thy sister who from childhood hours on me thy sympathies bestowed who was more pleasant than summer flowers and sorrowed when in fitful showers when i in sorrow was overflowed Oh sainted memory of thy love deep in my breast responsive wakes regret for days which hence must move without thy whisper i rove without thy tear when grief overtakes O still sweet sister ~~shed down thy~~ throned in light shed down thy rays of guardian care and may thy virtues mirrored bright upon our souls dispel the night which grieving love has gathered there
